You won't do the right, for you want to do You'll always be weak, if you won't be

But the reason must be
They leave the wrong rabe than right.
If they four top gand think,
at they stand on the brink As they stand on the brink
Of the yowing gulf just at their feet,
They would seek to get free,
And would come just like me,
And get this culvation complete.

So many profess

And say they've a home in the skies,

But the great judgment day
